Philadelphia is rich in our nation's history, but with numerous museums featuring hands-on exhibits and interactive displays, families will find a lot more than history in the City of Brotherly Love.

Family-Friendly Activities

PENN'S LANDING – Get all aboard the USS Olympia and the Becuna submarine at the Seaport Museum.

FRANKLIN INSTITUTE – Explore Benjamin Franklin's love of science and technology at this hands-on museum.

PLEASE TOUCH MUSEUM – Children are encouraged to touch, play and interact with numerous displays.

ADVENTURE AQUARIUM – Meet Mighty Mike, America's biggest alligator, and other types of aquatic life during an underwater adventure experience.

INSECTARIUM – Watch spiders spin webs, ants collect food and other insects be creepy crawly at the largest insect museum in the nation.

Tips from Samantha

This city has the largest collection of outdoor murals in the world! The whole city becomes an open-air museum in which to take a tour. Strict museum rules don't apply here and kids will love seeing the massive paintings while jumping, yelling and enjoying another museum no, no – eating ice cream.

Be sure to step into the lobby of the Comcast building to show your kids the largest television in the world. Measuring a whopping 83' by 25', you'll be treated to an amazing technological show for free.
